Thomas Cornell is a North Carolina native who earned his BFA from UNC Charlotte and his MFA from The University of Notre Dame. His sculptural practice is primarily concept driven and relies on a broad knowledge of materials and practices. Thomas engages themes of memory, loss, nostalgia, and history through the incorporation of found and fabricated objects.